> CITY COMMITTEE .- A meeting of the City Conservative Committee was held last night, with the assistant superintendent, Dr. A. S. McRae in the chair. A considerable amount of business relating to the Congressional campaign was transacted, and the committee adjourned, to meet on Monday night next, when arrangements for holding a primary election to nominate a candidate for the Senate to fill the unexpired term of Colonel Connally will be made, -THE CONCERT NEXT TUESDAY NIGHT .-

When the amount of talent employed in the concert to be given at the Second Baptist church next Tuesday night is considered, it is not to be wondered that the tickets for reserved seats are being so rapidly disposed of. Having attended a late rehearsal of the hend any serious or even painful result from greater portion of the programme, it can be safely said that it offers attractions equal to any concert ever presented to the Richmond public. Mrs. Barton, of Knoxville, has a voice of wonderful sweetness and pathos. Indeed, she is considered a prodigy when it is remembered that she is the wife of a wealthy merchant, and makes music only a pastime for the pleasure of herself and friends. Some of her notes and cadenzos. coupled with her placid and genial countenance, remind one forcibly of Patti and Nilsson, and it is to be hoped that none of our people who appreciate genuine talent will allow the opportunity to slip for hearing

The remaining ladies and gentlemen taking part are so well known here that it is unnecessary to say anything in their praise. Their presence is always hailed with enthusiasm and delight.

BOYD'S VIRGINIA STATE DIRECTORY .- MI ystematic canvass of all the business firms for the State Directory of 1874 and 1875. In addition to all the towns in this State, he proposes adding such cities and villages as are on the line of railroads in Kentucky, Tennessee, and North Carolina situated north and east of Louisville, Nashville, Knoxville, and Wilmington. Taking into consideration the expense and trouble involved in an enterprise of this kind we hope it may meet with the support i justly merits. The publisher is exerting him-elf to make the work a correct and reliable one for the benefit of all those that may stand in need of a copy for reference. Some people pause, and whisper low :

"How could they do poor Beecher so?" Some, "Why ain't times as they should be?" Some, "How you like Grant's new decree?" Some, "How can neighbor Jones afford To loaf about and pay his beard? Some, "How has that young lady there For dressing so much cash to spare?" But when they speak of SCHAAP's great store No whispers meet us any more, As all exclaim, in tones quite high, That SCHAAP's store is the place to buy-
